REALTY DEALS FALL; LOAN MARKET GAINS

Dearth of Large Transactions. 144 Sales Effected, Involving 219 Lots and Parcels.

Realty trading for the fourth week of June experienced a slight falling off from the activity which marked the three preceding weeks. There was a dearth of large transactions, such as characterized the selling earlier in the The record of the past six days shows an average decline of two sales per day from the number of deals completed in the previous week. The brokers, however, maintained a daily average of 24 sales and completed 144 transactions in which were involved 218 lots and parcels of real estate. That the decline was to be expected, That the decline was to be expected, is shown by the very active trading earlier in the month and by a glance at the corresponding period of last year. During the fourth week of June, 1914, the brokers closed only 130 deals following a week in which 155 trades had been effected. This comparison proves that the decline this year was not so marked as in 1914, since the present week is only 11 sales behind the record for last week while last year's drop was 25 deals.

Suburbs Hold First Place. The selling during four days of the week was above the average and the fifth day's trading was not far below. Wednesday was the business day of the week, showing 32 sales effected. Friday ranked second with 26 deals closed fol-lowed closely by Saturday with 25 lowed closely by Saturday with trades to its credit. There were 24 sales

The outlying suburbs retained the supremacy of the market, although experiencing a slight decline from the activity of the third week of June. There were seventy-three parcels changing owners in that section. The nearmore of the section of the contested the leadership, dropped to third place this week, being outstripped by the northwest city section. The latter was the scene of the transfer of fifty-two lots, while only forty-seven lots were conveyed in the near-urban district. There were twenty-five lots sold in the northeast, thirteen in the southeast, and nine in the southwest.

The first trip was made on June 18. Forty-eight girls from the Washington City Orphan Asylum, Fourteenth and S streets northwest, were taken to Great Falls in automobiles. The day was declared a great success.

The project has been entered into with such enthusiasm and the results have been so gratifying that the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Clarence A. Vincent, has discontinued the Sunday evening service that he might devote more time to the outing movement.
